Merely the name appears in the casualty lists Both were drafted last April. One was in Company E, 329th Infantry, and the other in the machine gun company of the 305th Infantry. Both lived with their nucle and held clerical positions

Deflected Shell Kills Four.

Four members of the 312th Infantry were killed and nine others wounded when two German shells hit a tree under which the men had taken shelter, were deflected and exploded among them, according to a letter from Col. Alvord V. P. Anderson, the commanding officer, received yesterday by Mrs. Edward Bornman of 19 West Park street, Newark. Her son, Fred-erick W. Keller, a bandsman, was one of the victims. I have seen hundreds of men killer and wounded, but this was the most incomprehensible occurrence that came to my attention, and I cannot but believe that Providence decree! that your son should give his life to his country," Col. Anderson wrote. After explaining how the regiment had been on the firing line for severa days and then withdrawn into a vil-lage occupied by French troops which was sheltered by a hill the Colones

"The men were a bit careless, exposed themselves when an enemy airplane came overhead and as a result we caught a few shells. One of them came in at my back #door and ac counted for my entire mess-steward. cook and waiter. The French quested us to move and I went ou personally and hunted up the safest place I could find, a deep valley with a steep hillside, some two miles back I inspected the place myself and saw no evidence of enemy shell fire. Bandsmen Near Colonel.

"The command came in and dug into the hill. The band and sanitary detachment were grouped right around where I was sleeping. We all had scraped off little flat places where we could remain in horizontal positions. "In the early evening the enemy started what we called an 'area shoot' I watched this carefully, as I was very solicitous for my men and no-ticed that all the shells passed twenty to thirty feet overhead. I figured the whole regiment was safe. Along about midnight the enemy tarted, another shoot. I was awake at the time and heard the shells passing over our heads. Suddenly two almost follow-ing each other hit the branches of a high tree, were deflected and exploded

Better Get Your Hudson Now

No Open Model Super-Sixes to be Built During Next Few Months. Factory Capacity is Limited and Goes to Closed Cars

> Our allotment of Hudsons does not provide for open models -the seven and five passenger types—until late next Spring

This means that all who get cars of that type in this territory during the next several months must choose from our present stock. It is not large. Only a few cars to meet four or five months' needs.

The reason is this: Production of Hudson Super-Sixes was to have been discontinued January 1st. Then the war came to a sudden end and automobile production was allowed to proceed. But a factory cannot instantly be turned from war activities to building motor ears. It will be June, at least, before Hudson production can be brought back to normal.

For the past four months we have been trying to accumulate a stock of Super-Sixes, but we were never able to get ahead. The demand took the Hudsons practically as fast as they were shipped

Just think, for a moment, of the value of the Super-Six and why it is so popular. More than 60,000 are in service. It has proved its value under every possible circumstance. During the past year and a half, when cars had to be of the right stuff or they failed because there was no expert service to keep them in condition, the Super-Sixes never faltered.

The reputation Hudson made for itself during that trying period has added a new glory to an already supreme car.

We now have a few cars of some of the more popular models. Don't you think it advisable to come and see what we have? When you know how limited our stock is, you will realize the need for prompt decision.
